3. Discuss ideas in a calm, quiet voice and let everyone share their ideas
4. Work on tasks until completed

Dear Blessed Sacrament Families,

Almost exactly two years ago today, schools were getting the news that we were “shutting down.” It was a scary and confusing time as very little was known about this new virus, and we were hearing words like “pandemic” and “quarantine” in our daily conversations. Although having my first child in the middle of shut down happened to be a huge blessing, I know many families suffered through this time. I also know that learning suffered during this time. Now we still find ourselves catching up on that quarter missed and dealing with the extra stress caused by what started two years ago. Lent is a great time to reflect on the sacrifices made in this time that were not necessarily our choices. One reflection that I want to focus on is the possible sacrifices made by all of you continuing to be part of our school. I am so thankful for all you wonderful families that continue to support Blessed Sacrament in various ways—the number one way being sending your awesome children to our school.

In Christ,

Mrs. Jennifer Tran
