Dear Blessed Sacrament Families,

I had the pleasure of handing out candy Monday night for the trick-or-treaters in my neighborhood. It's an entertaining job as I encountered a wide variety of costumes, groups, and manners. Some patiently waited for me to put one piece of candy into their bag, some rang the doorbell five times in the ten-second walk to get the door and greeted me with "It took you forever!", some plunged their hand into the bowl and dug for their favorite piece, some walked with parents who reminded them to say thank you from behind, and some were with their friends giggling with excitement. As I thought back on my own son who almost threw a tantrum after I told him to grab only one piece, I didn't judge the kids who seemed to lack manners or who were particularly greedy when it came to the type and amount of candy. But it was my last trick-or-treater group that I enjoyed the most. It was almost 9pm, and I was about to turn my light off when the doorbell rang. I opened the door to three teenagers and a dog dressed up in costumes—Dorothy & Toto and a peanut butter and jelly sandwich. They were just as excited as the children to get candy and by far the most polite group. The following Bible verse comes to mind, "Truly, I say to you, unless you turn and become like children, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven." Mt 18:3

In Christ,

Mrs. Jennifer Tran
